VALUE OF U.S. SEED EXPORTS UP, VOLUME DOWN IN JULY-MARCH 1974-75

Value of U.S. seed exports in July-March 1974-75 was up about 8 percent from that in the same period of 1973-74, but volume declined by 28 percent. This situation resulted from price increase in all major seed groups, ranging from an 18-percent gain for all forage seeds to a nearly 100-percent gain for pea seeds. The average price for all seeds was up more than 50 percent per pound.

While total volume of seed exports was down, rice, flower, and vegetable seed exports actually showed a plus. However, these are low-volume items, together accounting for only 8 percent of the U.S. export volume. The four high-volume items—forage, corn, sorghum, and pea seeds, which account for four-fifths of total U.S. seed exports—declined over 30 percent in volume.

Europe (EC and non-EC) and North America, in about equal proportion, accounted for over 80 percent of the export volume and over 70 percent of the value of U.S. seed exports. Asia was the third most important region, accounting for 14 percent of the export volume and nearly 13 percent of the value, followed by South America, Africa, and Oceania, taking less than 10 percent, 4 percent, and 3 percent of volume and value, respectively.

Forage seeds continued to dominate U.S. seed exports, accounting for over 40 percent of the total value of seed exports. Alfalfa seeds (certified) was the most important of all of the seeds exported. It had sales in excess of $10.6 million, followed by corn (both kinds) $9 million; peas, $7 million; and bluegrass (Kentucky and Merion) and beans, each with sales of over $5 million.

Forage seed exports declined 28 percent in quantity and 15 percent in value during this reporting period. Canada and Mexico were the most important country outlets, each taking about $7.5 million worth, followed by Japan, $3.3 million; West Germany, $2.8 million; and the Netherlands, $2.1 million. Other countries with forage seed imports of over $1 million include France ($1.7), Chile ($1.7), United Kingdom ($1.4), Argentina ($1.4), Italy ($1.1), and Poland ($1.0).

Vegetable seed exports increased nearly $10 million, or about 80 percent in value due entirely to price increases. Canada and Mexico were the two most important markets, each taking nearly $3 million worth. Japan was next in importance with over $2.2 million. Other countries with vegetable seed imports of over a million dollars include France ($1.8), Netherlands ($1.6) and Italy ($1.5). These six countries accounted for over 50 percent of U.S. vegetable seed exports during this reporting period.

Value of pea and bean seed exports increased more than 75 percent during this reporting period even though volume declined. Most of the increase in pea seed exports went to the EC-9, which more than doubled its previous year's purchases. Five of the nine countries showed substantial gains with the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, and Italy showing the largest gains. Canada, the United Kingdom, and Australia accounted for the more than $2-million increase in imports of bean seeds.

Flower seed exports continued to improve in quantity and value over the previous year's levels but still account for only about 0.5 percent of volume and 3 percent of value of total U.S. seed exports.
